Erie Gay News

Ashtagayla on August 18

by Ashtabula County Alliance

The second Ashtagayla Pride Event will be held on Saturday, August 18 at the Harbor Golf Club (formerly the Country Club), 4338 Lake Road West, Ashtabula OH. The event will run from 6 PM to 1 AM. Ticket cost is $15 each, $25 couple.

There will be food, Chinese auction, cash bar, games with prizes, 50/50 raffle, door prizes, music and dancing.

The in-ground swimming pool will be open and showers are available. Proper swimwear required.

Music provided by Party Times Music. Live music will be provided by Fiona Faulk. Food will be catered by Meola Catering.

Ashtagayla is hosted by the Ashtabula County Alliance. For tickets or more information, visit www.ashtabulacountyalliance.org

WNY Pride at the Pier August 26

by Pride Center of Western NY

The Pride Center of Western New York presents the 2007 Pride at the Pier event, with Lady Bunny (creator of Wig Stock).

The event takes place Sunday, August 26, from 2 to 7 PM at Lasalle Park in Buffalo NY. Take north street all the way west (changes to Porter Ave. Peace bridge entrance) and turn left before the lake.

Additional Information at www.pridecenterwny.org

Pride at the Pier is expected to be one of the two largest gay events of the summer in Buffalo

This is a 21+ event. Beer, sodas and hot dogs are included in price of tickets from 2 - 5 PM. Other food with a full service bar available for cash. Local DJ (probably Bill) with Lady Bunny will be doing a show and then spinning afterwards.

Ticket arrangements are not finalized as this issue goes to press, so contact the Pride Center for more information.

Get Ready to Show Your Pride

by Erie Gay Pride, Inc.

Once again, the Erie GLBT community and its supporters will be showing its pride Saturday, Aug. 25, at the annual Erie Pride March and Rally. The event is being organized by Erie Gay Pride, Inc.

Activities will begin with the Pride March down State Street beginning at The Zone Dance Club. The March will step off at 1 PM and follow State Street down to west Perry Square. Those who do not wish to march the entire length of the route are free to join the marchers anywhere along State Street. The Erie Police Department will be providing a motorcycle escort.

Community News

The Pride Rally at west Perry Square will feature a full line-up of speakers and entertainment. There will also be food and merchandise vendors as well as informational tables and displays. Everyone is invited to participate and become involved. Volunteers will also be needed.

Anyone who would like more information about the Aug. 25 Erie Gay Pride March/Rally, or who would like to volunteer, may call Brian at Erie Gay Pride, Inc., 1-866-229-1974.

Uncle Pete's Kitchen closes

from Uncle Pete's Kitchen

Uncle Pete's Kitchen on Raspberry Street was recently forced to close and is in the process of finding a new location. The building where Uncle Pete's was located was sold.

The landlord opted to exercise a clause in the lease to evict Uncle Pete's so that the new owner of the building could open a different restaurant at that location. Uncle Pete would like to thank the community for its support while we were open!

Please check the Uncle Pete's Kitchen web site www.unclepeteskitchen.com in the near future as to where the restaurant's new location will turn out to be.

Lobbyist Training Workshop Planned

from Jake Kaskey, Equality Advocates of Pennsylvania

In an effort to help the LGBT community become a more effective voice for change, Equality Advocates Pennsylvania and the Value All Families Coalition, will be holding a Lobbyist Training Workshop at the Unitarian Universalist Church in Erie on Sunday, Aug. 26, from 1-3 PM.

All members of the LGBT and allied communities are encouraged to attend this workshop to learn more effective and innovative ways to organize in their communities and lobby decision-makers for LGBT-inclusive legislation. This workshop will provide an opportunity for all people interested in helping to pass statewide non-discrimination legislation to gain the necessary skills required to lobby state legislators. Representatives from Equality Advocates Pennsylvania and the Women's Law Project will facilitate the workshop.

For more information or to RSVP, please contact Jake Kaskey at jkaskey@equalitypa.org or 1-866-LGBTLAW ext. 14.

Warm Weather Warning

From Crime Victim Center

As summer progresses and the days get both longer and warmer, there is often an increase in the number of sexual assaults. People are spending more time outside. They are going to the beach and to barbecues, to weddings and graduation parties, all of which have potential risks.

Here are some things to remember:

1. 85% of Sexual Assault victims know their attacker.

2. Alcohol is both the most common and the most accessible date rape drug.

3. No matter what, you always have the right to say "NO" to any sexual contact.

While there is no 100% effective way to prevent sexual assault, there are steps you can all take to reduce your risks:

Stick together - if you go somewhere with friends, make sure you leave with all the same people you arrived with - and check in with each other from time to time.

Never accept a drink in an open container - always open (and if necessary, pour) your own drink. This goes for both alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.

Trust your instincts - if something feels wrong to you, it probably is.

If you think someone else might be in a dangerous situation, get involved. If it seems risky to step in yourself, tell the host of the event what is happening, or if at a bar, notify security. And don't be afraid to call the police if necessary. Know the law. In Pennsylvania, anyone who is drunk or high is considered unable to give consent for sexual activity, regardless of age, gender, or sexual history.

When anyone's body is violated by sexual assault, we are all affected. Working together, we can make it harder for rapists to commit these crimes. For more information contact the Crime Victim Center at 455-9414.

Former Leaders of Ex-Gay Ministry Apologize

Three former leaders of the Christian organization Exodus, a ministry that counsels gays to change their sexual orientation, apologized for their efforts, saying although they acted sincerely, their message had caused isolation, shame and fear.

"Some who heard our message were compelled to try to change an integral part of themselves, bringing harm to themselves and their families," the three said in a statement released outside the Los Angeles Gay & Lesbian Center.

Those making the apology were former Exodus co-founder Michael Bussee, who left the group in 1979, Jeremy Marks, former president of Exodus International Europe, and Darlene Bogle, the founder of Paraklete Ministries, an Exodus referral agency.

The statement coincided with the opening of Exodus' annual conference at Concordia University in Irvine, CA.

Alan Chambers, president of Exodus, said the ministry's methods have helped many people, including himself.

"Exodus is here for people who want an alternative to homosexuality," Chambers said. "There are thousands of people like me who have overcome this. I think there's room for more than one opinion on this subject, and giving people options isn't dangerous."

Founded in 1976, Exodus now includes more than 120 ministries in the United States and Canada and over 150 ministries overseas. Based in Orlando, FL, the group claims to promote "freedom from homosexuality" through prayer, counseling and group therapy.

Canada Honors Pastor Who Fought For Gay Marriage

When Rev. Brent Hawkes conducted a double wedding for two same-sex couples at his Metropolitan Community Church in 2001 and then went to court when Ontario refused to register the marriages, little did he know that his fight would lead to marriage equality across Canada.

Now, Rev. Hawkes has been named to the Order of Canada, the highest civilian honor given in Canada and awarded in the name of The Queen, by the Governor General, her representative in the country.

Hawkes will celebrate his 30th anniversary as pastor of MCC Toronto - a career that continually has seen him at the forefront of the fight for LGBT civil rights.

When Rev. Hawkes performed the groundbreaking 2001 weddings, he wore a bulletproof vest on the advice of police, following a series of threats from socially conservative activists.

When the Ontario government refused to register the marriages, citing federal law, the issue was taken to the Canadian courts where a judge ruled that the prohibition on gay marriage was unconstitutional. The courts gave the Canadian government one year to amend the law. That ruling resulted in federal legislation legalizing same-sex marriage across Canada.

Receiving the Order of Canada took Hawkes by surprise. "I'm used to picketing governments," he told the Toronto Globe and Mail newspaper.

Elizabeth Edwards "Comfortable" with Gay Marriage

The wife of a leading Democratic presidential candidate is at odds with her husband over the issue of gay marriage. Elizabeth Edwards, wife of former North Carolina Sen. John Edwards, kicked off San Francisco's annual gay pride parade by expressing support for legalized gay marriage.

"I don't know why someone else's marriage has anything to do with me," Mrs. Edwards said at a news conference before the parade. "I'm completely comfortable with gay marriage."

Mrs. Edwards made the remark in an answer to a reporter's question after delivering a speech at a breakfast hosted by the Alice B. Toklas Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender Democratic Club, an influential San Francisco political organization.

She conceded that her support puts her at odds with her husband, the 2004 Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, who she said supports civil unions among gay couples — but not same-sex marriages.

“John has been pretty clear about it, that he is very conflicted,” she said. “He has a deeply held belief against any form of discrimination, but that’s up against his being raised in the 1950s in a rural southern town.”

No serious presidential candidate from either major political party has publicly supported gay marriage.

“John believes that couples in committed long-term relationships should enjoy the same rights, benefits and responsibilities regardless of whether they are straight couples or same-sex couples,” Mrs. Edwards said earlier during her speech. “He supports civil unions.”

HRC, Logo Channel to Host Candidate Forum

Many of the leading Democratic presidential contenders have agreed to participate in a forum on gay issues next month, sponsored by the Human Rights Campaign and televised on Logo, a cable channel aimed at the GLBT community.

Confirmed participants for the Aug. 9 forum include Sens. Hillary Clinton, D-NY; Christopher Dodd, D-CT and Barack Obama, D-IL, former Sen. John Edwards of North Carolina, former Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska and Congressman Dennis Kucinich, D-Ohio.

The live 90-minute forum will be held in Los Angeles and will be broadcast on Logo, which will also stream the forum live on its Web site.

HRC spokesman Brad Luna called the forum “a historic opportunity for us,” noting it was the first time major presidential candidates had agreed to address gay issues before a television audience. HRC president Joe Solmonese and singer Melissa Etheridge will host the forum.

Lesbian firefighter wins $6.2 million bias verdict

A jury has awarded $6.2 million to a Los Angeles firefighter who said she was harassed by colleagues because she is black and a lesbian.

The lawsuit brought against the Los Angeles Fire Department by Brenda Lee also claimed her superiors made derogatory comments about her and forced her to perform strenuous exercises without proper safety precautions because of her race and sexual orientation.

The jury award was the largest in a string of recent settlements of cases alleging discrimination and retaliation against women and minorities within the city’s Fire Department.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles city attorney’s office, Jonathan Diamond, said the city would “review its options going forward.”

Two other firefighters already have won jury awards in their discrimination lawsuits after their cases were tried separately.

In April, a jury awarded $1.7 million to Lewis Bressler, who claimed he was forced to retire for backing Lee in her claims of discrimination. Firefighter Gary Mellinger, who alleged the department retaliated against him after he helped Lee, settled with the city for $350,000 after a jury found in his favor.

Los Angeles Councilman Jack Weiss said the verdict was “very alarming to anyone who has a fiduciary responsibility over the city budget.”

“The most important thing is to reform the Fire Department,” he said. “There’s new leadership. ... Hopefully that will prevent these sorts of lawsuits.”

Marching in the Millcreek Fourth of July parade

by Michael Mahler

It was a rather small, but nonetheless enthusiastic GLBT contingent who marched in the Millcreek Fourth of July parade, marking the second year of our participation in this event. As before, we marched with the politically progressive contingent, which included the Lake Erie Alliance for Democracy (LEAD), Erie County Green Party and other groups/individuals. The light rain didn't dampen our spirits.

We were told that our contingent would be marching in between local Christian radio station WCTL and the Mudslingers. I have no clue who the Mudslingers are, and I joked about WCTL and our contingent glaring at each other for the length of the parade route. We later walked past the WCTL van, and they smiled and waved at us and we smiled and waved at them. Everybody played nicely. We actually ended up marching behind a bunch of fire trucks.

Just like last year, lots of people along the route smiled and waved at us. Many people even had their kids wave at us. There were several hundred, if not a couple of thousand people along the parade route. I am sure that we were regarded as just one other contingent in the parade, just like everybody else. At one point, we passed by a couple of women who appeared to be rather butch lesbians. One of them mouthed "thank you" when she waved at us. It was a total day brightener, and it made me feel really good about the whole experience.

James and I carried the Erie Gay News banner. Eric walked behind us with a homemade rainbow flag. The closest thing to negativity that I personally experienced was when Eric mentioned that he had overheard somebody along the parade route say, "God made Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve." I rolled my eyes at how lame this was, and suggested that maybe we should pay for writers to give this guy some new material.

One guy stepped out, smiled at us and took a picture. It felt really nice. Another woman who is a friend of ours ran out and hugged us. Sean Lafferty of WJET TV 24 was announcing contingents at the reviewing stand at the end. He noticed us, and said, "Hi, Mike!" I shot back with a "Hi, Sean!"

Deb took a lot of photos, which are now up on the web site. I am hoping that we can increase our turnout for next year. Certainly, Pride events like the picnic and the march/rally are important, but it is also important that we participate in events and activities that are not GLBT focused. One reason that I feel strongly about this is that there are a lot of GLBT people who are not aware or in touch with the local community. About a week after the parade, I got a call from a local guy via the Erie Hotline who had seen our small contingent and called looking for resources. Again, another experience that made the whole parade worthwhile for me! I don't think that this person would have found us unless we had made a point to go outside the confines of the usual GLBT venues and events. I felt incredibly happy and safe walking with the Erie Gay News banner past so many smiling and waving faces. It is an experience I highly recommend!

So, next year the Fourth of July falls on a Friday. Join us for a wonderful and uplifting experience!
